

GREAT SERMON BY DR. F. J. McCONNEL

President of DePauw University Delivers Stirring Address at Battle Grounds Sunday—Greencastle People Prominent in Days Service

PRaise FOR THE SOLOISTS

"The great evangelistic service of the day was held at 10:30 a. m. A magnificent chorus of one hundred voices, under the direction of the gifted singer, Rev. Harry Maxwell, of Greencastle, furnished some excellent music. Dr. H. A. Gobin, of Greencastle, led in the opening prayer, the congregation joining in the Lord's prayer. A free will offering was taken, which was a liberal one. After the offering Mrs. Hurst, of Greencastle, sang a solo entitled 'The Pharisee.' Mrs. Hurst has a rich, beautiful, clear voice and delighted her immense audience with her beautiful solo. Mrs. Hurst is the soloist at the College Avenue church, Greencastle, and the program committee is to be congratulated on securing her for this service."

"Dr. Francis J. McConnell, president of DePauw University, gave the address of the morning. The tabernacle was packed and standing room was at a premium, but that vast audience paid undivided attention to this most wonderful lecture. Dr. McConnell is a modest, unassuming man, but a remarkable character, and he has a splendid delivery. Dr. McConnell will be on the camp grounds all week and will lecture. This certainly adds to the attractiveness of the program."

"The sacred concert was held at 1:30 p. m. in charge of Rev. Harry Maxwell, of Greencastle. Rev. Maxwell is an untiring worker and has made the music a decided success. Paul Smith, of Greencastle, played 'The Holy City,' on the cornet and this was most beautiful. Jay Carpenter, of Brazil, who was the cornetist of the camp meeting for years was present Sunday and assisted Paul Smith on the cornet. It was a treat to hear Mr. Carpenter in the service again and to hear him play his cornet. Mrs. Pauline Hurst, of Greencastle, a soloist of renown, then sang in a most charming manner a solo entitled 'Rock of Ages.'"

"At 2:00 Dr. H. A. Gobin, vice-president of DePauw University, taught the Sunday school to a vast audience. Dr. Gobin will have full charge of the Bible readings this week and after hearing him many will come back especially to hear this interesting man read the Bible."

"The preaching service at 3:00 p. m. was a great service. After a brief song service, Dr. N. Shumaker, of Indianapolis, led in the opening prayer. After this Miss Kathlyn Campbell, of Greencastle, and daughter of Dr. Fred Campbell, the superintendent of the Greencastle district, sang a beautiful solo. Miss Campbell's voice is very sweet and clear and she sings with a great deal of feeling."

"The evangelistic service was held at 7:45 p. m. After a fine song service in charge of Rev. Harry Maxwell, Miss Orpha Smith, of Greencastle, sang 'It is Just Like Jesus' in a charming manner. Miss Smith sings with much expression and her solos are greatly enjoyed. Jay Carpenter, of Brazil, and Paul Smith, of Greencastle, played a cornet duet. These young men are cornetists of rare ability. Mr. Maxwell and Mrs. Hurst of Greencastle, then sang 'Let the Lower Lights Be Burning,' which was immensely enjoyed. There is much fine talent in the large chorus and Miss Kathlyn Campbell, of Greencastle, sang in a most effective way 'All I Need is Jesus.' Rev. L. S. Smith, of Greencastle, led in the opening prayer, Rev. Aaron Wood presided and made the announcements."

"After the evening offering had been taken, Dr. H. A. Gobin, of Greencastle, gave the address. Dr. Gobin is a popular orator and teacher and he delighted a large audience. It had not been announced that Dr. Gobin was to preach, but owing to Dr. Smith's throat being in a bad condition Dr. Gobin consented to take Dr. Smith's place. This was one of the greatest sermons ever preached from the pulpit."

BOYS AND GIRLS OF 30 YEARS AGO WILL MEET

The Annual Reunion of the Boys and Girls of 30 Years Ago, will be held a week from next Saturday at the John Reeves Homestead, 4 miles north of Greencastle. The day will be spent in a general good time, with plenty to eat and good things to drink. On the following day Sunday, an all-day meeting will be held at the Mt. Pleasant church. Dr. H. A. Gobin, who thirty-two years ago, had charge of the services at that church, will conduct the meeting. A large number of the old boys and girls are expected for the reunion.

ALLEGED MAIL THIEF HELD.

Claude Lindzy, who was arrested in Bloomington, Ind., Tuesday, charged the theft of a mail sack, was given a preliminary hearing Monday before United States Commissioner Charles W. Moores and bound over to the Federal Grand Jury under $350 bond. Lindzy denied having taken the mail sack. J. J. O'Herrin, a flagman, who alleges he saw Lindzy with the mail pouch, testified that he was certain that Lindzy was the man whom he had seen with the pouch.—Indianapolis Star.

JOHNS FAMILY REUNION.

The Annual Reunion of the Johns family was held Sunday, August 13, at the old homestead. A delightful reunion dinner was spread on tables in the yard. C. W. McWethy has returned from French Lick.

BUT WHERE ARE THE WITNESSES

Marshal is Looking for Winfield Patterson and Frank Detro, Who Made Affidavit That They Purchased Whiskey of Roscoe Nichols.

TRIAL OF CASE CONTINUED

Winfield Patterson and Frank Detro, arrested Sunday morning and released without bond Sunday afternoon, when they made affidavit that they had purchased whiskey of Roscoe Nichols, proprietor of the South End Pool room, are much sought after by the police. There is little doubt now that the two men made the affidavits simply as a blind to get out of jail.

They left town Monday morning, before Phillips was arrested, and it is understood that Detro has joined the regular army. Patterson's whereabouts also, are unknown.

Monday when taken before the mayor, Nichols, stated that the men became angry when he ordered them out of his place of business, and it is believed that they made false affidavits in order to get even with Nichols and also get out of jail.

Phillips was released on $300 bond and his trial set Tuesday morning. Tuesday morning, at the request of Jackson Boyd, attorney for Phillips, the case was continued until tomorrow.

Foreman Downey of the square improvement work, expects to make great headway in the work in the next few weeks. The most tedious part of the work is nearing completion and it is intended to get ready for the crushed stone for the new streets within two weeks. When this work begins the improvement will begin to quickly round up into shape. The business men are certainly co-operating with Mr. Downey in hoping that the work will proceed at a fast clip from this time on.

The San Diego, Cal., Union has the following concerning Dr. Bennett M. Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Allen, formerly of Greencastle: "Professor B. M. Allen of the University of Wisconsin, one of the most eminent zoologists in the country, has been commissioned by the national fishery commission to examine into the lobster industry on the Pacific Coast, with a view of establishing an artificial hatchery in connection with the biological station at La Jolla. Professor Allen has devoted the last month to this work and will continue for several months longer."

William Ridpath in Spokane—Tacoma, Wash., News, Aug. 9.

DEATH OF MISS MARGARET OVERBECK OCCURRED SUNDAY

While in Chicago about three years ago, Miss Overbeck was run down by an automobile and suffered a severe nervous shock as the result. Her health has never been the best since that time. Mrs. H. A. Gobin received a letter late Monday afternoon, informing her of the death of Miss Overbeck.

IS INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY TRAIN

Otto Lane, Formerly of Greencastle, But Now Living in Texas, Met With a Serious Accident Last Week—Taken to Hospital.

ONE LIMB IS BROKEN

A letter was received here Tuesday by Frank Lane stating that his brother, Otto Lane, who is living in Texas, was badly injured on Thursday, August 10, when he was struck by a train. The details of the accident, further than he suffered a fracture of one leg and was badly bruised, are not known here. Mr. Lane, whose hearing is slightly affected, was working as a baggage man at a small town in Texas. It is believed here that he did not hear the approach of a train, which probably was running slowly at the time it struck him. Lane was taken to a hospital at Jacksonville.

PASTOR'S FAREWELL TALK

The services at the Christian church last Sunday morning were of unusual interest. The house was full—nearly all the men and women who had been in the pastor's Bible classes at any time were present.

The large chorus made the music especially good. S. J. Wilton singing a special solo with fine effect and Mrs. Lula Young sang "O Divine Redeemer," which showed the wonderful improvement which her voice has been making. The pastor closed his sermon just before 12 o'clock and then baptized a young lady. In his last remarks the pastor said: "I leave a message for every man, every woman, every child, every household, every social circle, every Bible class and teacher. If this message were always remembered it would change the tone, and the temper and increase the power for good of every church family and neighborhood. It would change the conversation often in the home, at the table, in the place of business. It would lift the mind and the soul above the low and sordid and put a new spirit in the life and bring new joy to the heart. Think of the waste of thought, energy and time in the things that are trifling, idle, hurtful, sinful. God knows all these matters. We are at all at fault, but Christianity redeems our time, our thought and our speech. We are lifted up and out of the common and he low by one common faith. All too poor, however, are men and women to drop back to the drags of sin—the filth of the flesh. Hence there must be kept upon the mind upon the mouth, upon the heart, constant watch. Every man should be harsh and hard upon himself; show himself no charity; keep guards and sentinels out to watch and protect, but just as he is hard on himself and strict with himself, so he is lenient toward others. Jesus Christ found hypocrisy among the loudest professors in his day, and those who were so exacting toward others, he condemned unsparingly. It is a safe rule to go by that when you hear a person call all others, 'hypocrites,' the Devil has that person bound with chains. He does not seem, however, to know that he has played into the hands of the evil one. Good takers seem often most of evil. God is good and how tolerant of all of us he is and if he shows such love who am I and what am I that I should not be tolerant also. Paul called himself the chief of sinners; not some other fellow. 'Love suffereth long and is kind.' The good man puts the lash on himself, the bad man puts it on the other fellow. How they did condemn Jesus Christ for his close association with some who were among the despised. But if the love of God will not let me go, upon what principle does my love let go of others. I would rather save than destroy. What the church needs is love, richer, stronger, purer and more triumphant. What now you ask can we do to realize these higher holier virtues in our poor broken lives? Show us how to improve in Faith and Hope and Charity. I believe the Apostles words constitute a safe and all sufficient recipe. 'Whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely and whatsoever things are of good report. Think on these things. The God of all peace and comfort be with you—Amen.'

HAYMAKERS ARE GIVEN DRUBBING

THE SCORE IS 17 TO 5

The Brazil Haymakers demonstrated that they are the real thing yesterday afternoon when they gave the Greencastle Haymakers an awful drubbing by the score of 17 to 5. Frosty Smith, the one-armed twirler had a good deal to do with the victory, for Frosty had the visitors entirely in his power and allowed them few hits. Erratic support gave the Greencastle boys most of their runs.

While Frosty was trimming the visitors, the Brazil Haymakers hit on the offerings of the Greencastle twirler and patted the ball to all corners of the lot. Elmer Wright was the star batter for the locals, having three triples to his credit. It is reported that as a result of Elmer's performance Sunday the soups of the big leagues are on their way here to offer the Haymakers a big prize for their sensational slugger.—Brazil News.

SORROW WITH A PURPOSE.

Tears Secured a Bust But Failed to Win a Canvas.

Some months ago the King of England received at his place at Sandringham the King of Greece, who was accompanied by one of his young aides-de-camp. As Edward VII. was doing the honors, exhibiting his gallery, and his guest was admiring a bust of a young woman, the charming work of the sculptor Thornycroft, the King was much surprised at an explosion of sobs. It was the young Captain, who was weeping and who excused himself in these words: "Will your Majesty pardon me? This bust is the perfect image of a sister whom I loved most tenderly. It recalls to me a loss, alas! never to be forgotten."

"In that case," responded the King, greatly moved, "permit me to offer it to you."

And through the care of Sir Francis Knollys the marble was transported to the apartment of this sorrowing brother.

Time passed. The young Captain returned to London. Quite recently he visited the admirable collection of the Duke of Cambridge and recognized with renewed sorrow in a canvas of Burne-Jones the features of the angel he had lost.

The Duke perhaps would have had the same generosity as King Edward but some one was present who had witnessed the scene at Sandringham. So the ingenious Greek did not this time carry away any family portrait to his country.—Le Cri de Paris.

Law of Life.

What is the true law of our moral life? That is the question which every age sets itself to solve, and to the solution of which every contribution is welcome. And the answer that George Eliot gives is that there is a reign of law in the moral as well as in the physical world, and that this law cannot be broken with impunity. "A man soweth so shall he also reap."

The Worst Load.

The worst load a man can carry is that of habits begotten of evil passions—that growing pile of sensual desires, which in their accumulation, cohere finally into a mass, devil possessed which sits between his shoulders, overweighing all else in kind, and driving him ruthlessly, faithfully on the road downward.—Christian World.

Dismal Professions.

The question was recently asked in a newspaper, "What is the most dismal of professions?" Among those that occurred to us as having a claim to be so considered were grave digging, scavenging, listening to Parliamentary orations through an all-night sitting, and the writing of poems—or articles—that nobody reads. The washing of dishes may be made interesting if done scientifically.—British Medical Journal.

Eyesight and Crime.

Many criminals have suffered from eye-strain or some other defect of vision which prevented the exercise of complete self-control. In consequence, habits of drug-taking and alcoholic excess were formed and the moral sense so perverted that crimes of greater or lesser magnitude were committed.—Cassell's Magazine.

The Lure of the City.

City life is like an intoxicant. Once one becomes familiar with the teeming life, the endless variety, the free play of brain and thought, to go back to the stillness of a rural community is like the sudden return to water as a drunk after a generous enjoyment of alcohol.—Irish Homestead.

Crimean War.

But for its stirring memories, and better still, its awakening of long-dormant national energy and martial spirit, one could wish that the sanguinary Crimean conflict had not been fought at all.—Sir Horace Rumbold in the National Review.

Thirty Years Together.

Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time—or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guesswork in this evidence of Thos. Arles, Concord, Mich., who writes, "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and its the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. It's the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequaled for laryngitis, asthma, hay-fever, croup, quinsy or sore lungs. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. ## Remodeling Men Her Life Duty

Just Because She Loves Him She Tries to Make Him Different.

IF THE OLD STORY about the hen that cackled, clucked and flopped and threw herself into what "these days would be fashionably called "nervous prostration" because the little ducks she had hatched went swimming were made to suit human conditions she did not cluck and cackle and flop when the little ducks swam off, saving all this windmill emotion in which females are prone to indulge, for the moment when she saw the little drakes step into the water.

For those of the sex of the hen are always satisfied to let those of their own set go as nature intended. Their mission on the bank is to correct anything in the male sex which doesn't meet with their approval.

A woman doesn't approve of what a man eats nor the way he eats it. She reads the latest novel, mistaking what is latest for best, and looks on him as one who is not well read because in his rare moments for reading he reads the good and the old. She turns to the society news in her paper, and he turns to the sports in his, and largely because of his preference she classes all sports under the heading of vulgarity.

Because she prefers a dough-faced Madonna to his duck hunting scene, she believes she has a higher sense of the artistic, which is strengthened when he makes fun of her kind of poetry and laughs at sandwiches tied up in ribbon.

It is she who makes the barefoot dance both possible and permissible, and walls at his blindness to the grace and beauty of motion when he says the bare human foot wouldn't look good if each toe were bound around with a bow of baby blue ribbon.

The colors in a tree appeal to her and the lumber in it appeals to him, and all the clucking, cackling and flopping in the world won't change him.

She is chagrined because he is awkward in society, forgetting that the awkward man in society is usually the thoroughbred in business.

She demands that he be an ideal host, though she knows he would rather eat alone at the kitchen table than preside at the most pompous meal if company is there, and calls this dislike to dissimulate cordiality as "boorishness" and "inhospitality."

She reveres the chafing dish, and believes he lacks all social grace because he has a higher regard for his Cinderella sister, the frying pan.

He remains fond of the friends he enjoyed when his income was this fondness she changes him with lacking social ambition.

He hates crocheted things and she knows it, but the day he tells her of his love she gets out a crochet needle and begins something for him, and this crochet needle is in evidence the rest of his life.

He remains to the end very much as the Lord made him, and to the end of the chapter she nags and pinches, and moulds, and touches him up here and there trying to make him over.

Why? Because she is firmly of the opinion that if she doesn't stand on the bank and cluck and cackle and flop her wings he will get drowned.

And she does all this because she "loves" him.

Always Prepared for Unexpected Guests

We live some distance from the city, thus cannot "run out" to make extra purchases. In order to be prepared for the unexpected guests I have set aside a little cupboard in which I keep potted meats, vegetables, nuts, raisins, canned soups, etc.

Also a few jars of each kind of pickle, preserve, and jam, several glasses of each kind or jelly. There is always a nice cake and some cookies.

This cupboard is never called upon to furnish food for our regular meals. It reigns supreme as an "extra." In this way my mind is at rest; guests may arrive without warning, or one may have little "feasts" after the theater without interfering with the ordinary household routine.

Since seeing the despair, the hustle, and worry of my neighbors, I view my little cupboard with increasing satisfaction, and think others might like to give my idea a trial.—Harper's Bazar.

Bride's Cake

One scant cupful of butter, three cupfuls of sugar, one cupful of milk whites of twelve eggs, three tea spoonfuls of baking powder, one cupful of cornstarch, three cupfuls of flour, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt, cream, butter, and sugar. Mix flour, baking powder, and cornstarch and add alternately with milk and whipped whites. Flavor with vanilla or almond extract and bake in loaf tin lined with four thicknesses of paper. Have over moderate.

Raspberry Frosting

Crush one cup of raspberries, add one-third cup of sugar, and let stand an hour or more then pass through a sieve; add a tablespoonful of lemon juice and enough confectioners' sugar to make a paste that will spread and remain on the cake. Or strawberries may be used instead of raspberries.

Cannon Balls

Bake a loaf of dark spice cake in a deep square pan, when cold, cut into three inch cubes, then trim the corners to make round balls. Ice twice with a rather stiff chocolate icing, and when thoroughly dry place on a platter, "cannon ball" fashion, and decorate with tiny flags.

HEAVY DAMAGES FOR A JOKE.

Two Young Men Fined $14,000 For Hazing.

Fourteen thousand dollars damages was the verdict of a jury recently in a suit brought by Charles Stoner against five young men of prominent families in Bradford, Ill., for injuries caused in a hazing prank of which he was the victim. The defendants are William Real, Earl Lappin, Arley Harwood, Earl Howe, and Francis Long.

Stoner, the son of a farmer, was attending school in Bradford last spring when the incident occurred. He was enticed from home one evening and dragged to a cemetery at the edge of the city, where he was tied to a tombstone.

He was terribly frightened at shadowy forms approaching among the trees, and made a desperate effort to free himself. As he lunged forward he pulled the tombstone to which he was tied over upon him. His knee bone was broken and he suffered internal injuries. His captors freed him, and he was taken to a hospital, where he remained a nervous wreck for many weeks.

One of his hazers, Arthur Pligvin, is in California. Another, John Sharkey, is thought to be in South Dakota. These two, together with the five against which the civil action was brought, have been indicted for conspiracy.—Chicago Tribune.

The Murdock Family.

Bent Murdock tells of the coming to Kansas of the father of the Murdock as follows: "He cut a short hickory stick on the south bank of the Kaw River near the foot of Kansas avenue, Topeka, hung a pack on the stick, put it over his shoulder, crossed the river on a log wagon, took his foot in his hand, started on a beeline and walked from Topeka to Mount Pleasant, Ia., where he landed in twelve days, the distance being over 300 miles. That was fifty years ago last March. Thomas Murdock—he was the Colonel of a Virginia regiment that was mustered for the Mexican War but didn't go—left the Alleghany Mountains with a wife and five children in a covered wagon and a carryall early in the fall of 1856 for the Territory of Kansas.

The father and two oldest sons made the overland trip from Mount Pleasant, Ia., to Topeka in the winter of 1856-7 by wagon, the wife and three younger children remaining in that town. When Thomas Murdock returned to Mount Pleasant he loaded his family into the cars for Burlington, where they took a Mississippi steamboat to St. Louis. Here they changed boats, taking a Missouri River one for Leavenworth, where they were met by a team and hauled to Topeka.

Colleges Undesirable Insurance Risks.

Colleges are now regarded as rather undesirable insurance risks, and it is probable that the rate will be generally increased. In 18 years 784 fires have occurred in college buildings, entailing a loss of $10,500,000 in money and a heavy loss of life. This makes the average money loss over $13,000.

There are only three engravers of shorthand in England. One lives at Bath. He has, as a joke, suggested to his two London fellow-workers the propriety of a trade union.

Population of Canada Growing.

The population of Canada, according to the official estimates of that country, was 6,504,900 on April 1, an increase of 21 per cent in six years.

Arctic Explorers Don't Have Colds.

No Arctic explorers ever have colds until they return to civilization. Then, one and all, they are prostrated by severe influenza.

Many Ways to Use Mint

Few herbs are so refreshing as mint, and when it is so easy always to have a supply growing in the garden, it makes one wonder why so many families never have it.

Mint Tea—Our grandmothers used to recommend a cup of mint tea night and morning to aid digestion, and though at that time little of the herb was used in cooking, it was to be found in every garden. The mint tea was also used to allay nausea, and was made by pouring boiling water over fresh mint shoots, covering closely and letting it remain in a warm place for an hour or more.

Mint in Tea—Mint is more often used in beverages than in any other way in my family, a sprig of mint adding more to the refreshing qualities of any cold drink than anything I know of. For use in tea take one small sprig and a few drops of lemon juice are all that will be needed. For use in any beverage the mint should be very slightly crushed to bring out the flavor.

Mintade—We use it in lemonade or grape juice, or make a special drink in this way: Crush a large bunch of mint, and soak for an hour or two in the juice of two lemons, with a grated rind of one. Make a syrup of 1 pint each of sugar and water, cooking until it threads. Remove from the fire, and add the lemon juice and mint, also the juice of one orange and the same quantity of pineapple or strawberry juice. Strain and add cold water until it is right to drink.

Frozen Mint Cup—Boil 1 pound of sugar and 1 quart of water five minutes, and strain through a cloth. Chop very fine the leaves from about a dozen stalks of mint, and add them and the juice of two lemons and the grated rind of one to the syrup. When cool strain, turn into an ice cream freezer, pack with ice and stir occasionally. It will be very wet, not at all like ice cream, but is delicious.

Mint in Foods—A little mint is a pleasing addition to many dishes, but the leaves must be chopped to a pulp. An omelet should have a half tablespoon of mint for each four eggs, which flavors it quite strongly. Veal loaf is improved by the addition of it, and some green salads also. A sprig of mint cooked with green peas is sure to be liked, and the well known mint sauce to serve with lamb is too well known to need more than passing mention.

Mint Vinegar—This can be kept on hand, being made from either fresh or dried mint, and is useful for flavoring salads. Fill a wide-mouthed bottle with crushed mint, then pour in all the vinegar the bottle will hold. Let it stand three or four weeks, when it will be ready for use, and can be strained into another bottle.

Mint Jelly—To serve with a roast this is made with apple juice for a foundation. For each cup of juice that is ready to boil down to jelly, use 1 tablespoon of mint extract, made in this way: Pour 1 cup of hot water over one cup of mint leaves well pressed down, and let it stand covered for an hour. Strain through a cloth, and be sure to get all the juice from the mint. Add to the apple juice, put in an equal quantity of sugar, and cook until it jellies. It can be made with gelatin if desired, adding the acid powder which is found in each package of some makes. If desired to have the jelly the lovely green color, the green vegetable coloring can be used.

Candied Mint—For a confection try candied mint. Select the largest and finest leaves, let them remain in the air until slightly dry, yet not at all crisp. Make a syrup of equal quantities of sugar and water boiled until it threads, and dip the leaves in this one at a time, holding them on a loop of fine wire. Lay on paraffin paper to dry, either in the hot sun or in a slow oven.

To dry the mint for winter use, gather before it blossoms, place on paper in a dark room, and when thoroughly dry put away in bags till needed.—Mrs. H. M. Woodward in Ohio Farmer.

Grape Fruit Marmalade

Remove the yellow rind from grape fruit; put rind in brine and boil until soft and transparent, then drain and soak in fresh cold water for two hours, after which remove every particle of white pith, and cut into thin slices. Remove all the seeds from the fruit, and put the latter into a pan with the juice. When the rind is ready add it to the pulp with equal weights of sugar and boil for thirty minutes or until it jellies. Let cool put in glasses with paraffin over top.

Cream Chees Salad

Whip half a cupful of thick cream, and into it whip half a cupful of liquid aspic jelly and a quarter of a pound of grated Parmesan cheese; season with a little salt and pepper, and divide the mixture into small wet molds. Set away on ice to harden. Peel and cut large, flat tomatoes in halves. Dress each with salt, pepper olive oil, and vinegar. Can on ice. When serving place the halved tomatoes cut side up on the dish and put on each half one of the molded cheese salads. Garnish with parsley sprigs. Aspic jelly leus itself to a great variety of dishes. It is used in cold entrees and salads, where the materials are molded in the jelly. It must be clear.

Caviar Sandwiches

A dainty sandwich to serve with iced tea is made of caviar. Take a slice of bread and cut from corner to corner, thus making four little diamond shape pieces. Spread the caviar on two opposite pieces of bread, and on the other two pieces place a small piece of lemon. This makes a cool lunch for hot afternoons.

LIPTON'S CHARITY.

He Took First One Hint Then Another.

Sir Thomas Lipton has committed many generous acts during his life about which he can never be induced to talk.

He is fond, however, of telling of an incident which happened in his early days, concerning an astute mother who forced him to raise her son's wages because Sir Thomas had presented him with a brand-new suit of clothes.

Sir Thomas started business with one assistant, a boy of fourteen, who was willing and honest. One day the lad was overheard complaining that his clothes were so shabby he was unable to go to chapel.

Mr. Lipton, as he then was, was making every sacrifice to enlarge his little shop, but he took a small amount from his carefully hoarded savings and bought the boy a suit of blue cloth.

The next day the boy didn't come to work, and Mr. Lipton, meeting his mother in the street, asked her the reason.

"Why, Mr. Lipton," she said, curtly, "Jimmie looks so respectable, thanks to you, sir, that I thought I would send him round the town today to see if he couldn't get a better job."

Sir Thomas meekly took the hint and offered an increased salary, which was accepted on behalf of Jimmie by his mother.—Detroit News-Tribune.

Always For Each Other.

Kenesaw Mountains Landis, federal judge at Chicago, who fined the Standard Oil Company $29,240,000 is a much talked about man in the United States. A picturesque character, many stories are told of him and of his almost equally picturesque brothers. It is probable that no family of boys were ever more devotedly attached to one another than these Landises. Any one of them has been ready at any time to make any sort of sacrifice for any other of them. They hold their interests mutual, and all of them—number five—have prospered.

When Fred Landis decided that he wanted to come to congress his brother Charles, who already held a seat, had the brightest sort of prospect of securing the nomination for governor of Indiana. His friends knew, and so did he, no doubt, that Fred's entrance into politics would lead to the cry of "too much Landis," and injuriously affect Charles's gubernatorial chances but the congressman was for his brother, Fred, nevertheless. He was willing even to lose his own seat in congress in order to see Fred get to the front. Fred got there, but served only two terms, owing to a political upheaval in his district, and is once more in private life. If Kenesaw Mountain Landis should develop as a political quantity—he put forward, for instance, for governor of Illinois or for vice president, as has been suggested—you may depend upon it that the other Landis boys, every mother's son of them, will be for Kenesaw Mountain to the last ditch. That is the way they are built.

A Quaint Custom.

The annual historic "red nose" games have just been held on the village green at Carnwath. According to the conditions in the charters granting the lands of Lee and Carnwath to the Lockhart family, this race must be run annually at a stated period. The winner becomes the heir in succession to the estates should the Lockhart family die out without issue within the ensuing year, his name being proclaimed at the Cross of Edinburgh.—London Globe.

Britishers Eat More Sugar.

The annual per capita consumption of sugar in the United Kingdom was gradually increased from 29½ pounds in 1857 to nearly 100 pounds at the present time. But the British refining industry has steadily declined relatively. Fifty years ago practically all of the sugar used in the kingdom was refined there, while now the proportion is only 45 per cent.

Many Electro-Technical Patents.

About 5,000 electro-technical patents were taken out in various countries in 1906. The United States is credited with 2,050, United Kingdom and colonies with 750, Germany 700, France 400, Austria 200, Italy 180, Hungary 130, and Switzerland with 120.

Bicycle Trade Bad in England.

Though the British automobile trade is prosperous beyond precedent this year the bicycle trade has been unusually depressed, chiefly because of the wet summer and partly because the new Australian tariff amounts to a prohibition of exports to that colony.

The False Orange.

In Kamchatka there grows a mushroom called the false orange, from which is made a liquor that produces delirium and convulsions. Nevertheless, it is a favorite beverage.

Defective Vision Makes Men Drink.

Bad sight is given as the reason for men going wrong. Defective vision has been proved to be the cause of lack of self-control, alcoholism and drug taking.

When There is too much outside speculation—the matrimonial bond decreases in interest.

Pa says it is not how much money or how much knowledge a man possesses,—but what is character, that counts.

Hints to Beauty Seekers

Sulphur and molasses form an old fashioned tonic which has a most beneficial effect upon the complexion. To make it put two tablespoonfuls of powdered sulphur in a saucer and six teaspoonfuls of molasses. Blend thoroughly and take a half hour before breakfast and retiring. A teaspoonful is the usual amount for a dose. Take this dose for three days, and then, after a corresponding interval, resume.

To straighten your back stand with the back, head, and heels perfectly straight and flat against a wall or door. Hold the position for five or ten minutes. Simple as it seems to be, you will find it a difficult matter to do and hold the position. Persist in deep breathing exercises night and morning. Take a cane or a broom handle and place it under the arms, holding it in position by the hands and in such a manner as to expand the chest to the utmost and at the same time to bring the shoulder blades into position. Do this as often as possible when sitting, reading, or walking, and after a time the habit of erect carriage will be formed and the stoop in the shoulders will be corrected.

Frequent bathing is a sure cure for excessive perspiration. To make the baths more effective add enough tincture of benzoin to make the water creamy. After emerging from the bath spray the body with fragrant toilet water or some invigorating aromatic vinegar. Lavender water is deliciously refreshing and the perfume clings for hours. A good lavender water is made by digesting one ounce of mitcham oil of lavender in a half pint of strong rectified spirits.

If, before going outdoors, you will rub well into your skin some cold cream, and then powder the face thoroughly, especially the nose and the prominent parts of cheeks and chin, it will prevent freckles returning. Wear a hat that comes well forward so as to protect the face. When you return from an outing, instead of using soap and water for cleansing, fill the skin with cold cream. It will remove the dust and grime and prevent any irritation to the skin.

Buttermilk is excellent to take off tan and freckles that are not too deeply burned in. It improves the complexion wonderfully if used constantly. A basin is filled, the hands used, and the face washed as in water; then it is allowed to dry in, and the prominent parts of cheeks of these beautiful baths. Pale freckles will disappear almost entirely, so will tan unless burned too deep; while old freckles are lightened and, by a liberal use of cold cream and powder, are barely perceptible.

Manicure your nails about every five days until they get in good condition, then once a week. This is the best way to break yourself of the nail biting habit. Every night before going to bed bathe the hands with warm water and a pure soap, dry thoroughly, and then rub a few drops of olive oil into the nails. This will correct the dryness of the nails, and when they are in good condition there will be no inclination to bite them or to stick the fingers in the mouth.

Lack of exercise and over-eating are chief causes of the accumulation of flesh. As a person gets older and stouter there is no inclination to walk rapidly or to undertake anything that requires physical effort, and the appetite often increases, in consequence the flesh increases also. Follow the dietary persistently and practice physical exercises every night and morning and your superfluous flesh will slowly but surely disappear.

Massage with a little skin food is excellent for tired eyes. After the bath use just a bit of skin food on the finger tips and draw them gently across the lids from the inner to the outer edge; this soon brings a rested feeling that helps to prevent the tight closing of the lids which in time causes fine lines to form.

Sweetbread and Cucumber Salad

Prepare sweetbreads by simmering twenty minutes with seasonings and when cold cut into small pieces. Have half the amount of cucumbers cut in the same way and mix all with a mayonnaise which has been reduced with half its bulk of whipped cream. When thoroughly blended heap lightly into nests of tender lettuce leaves, fleck lightly with paprika, and serve with crisp cheese wafers.

Mayonnaise Dressing

Mix with one egg yolk one teaspoonful lemon juice. Add drop at a time, olive oil until thick enough to form, using a mayonnaise mixer. Add more oil freely alternating with juice and vinegar, or two of either, using one scant cupful of oil altogether. Materials must be cold. Make thinner, with whipped cream if desired. Season with salt, paprika, white pepper, and little mustard if desired.

Healthy Mattresses

All children should have separate beds, if possible, and mattresses are far more healthy than feather beds. All counterpanes should be removed at night, for they are heavier than blankets, and not good on the bed during sleep.

To make strong egg shells the hen must have a plentiful supply of mineral matter, such as crushed oyster shells, ground bone and clover.

Gracing the Hall of Fame

ON the heights of the University of New York, overlooking the Harlem River, stands the Hall of Fame, where recently has been engraved the name of Mary Lyon.

Hitherto this peristyle or avenue of immortals has been reserved for American men. A parallel loggia was provided for men of distinguished service in this country who were born abroad, such as Agassiz and Hamilton and John Paul Jones. In the central aisle of the immortals only such Americans as Emerson, Eliza Gray and great statesmen and generals were enthroned.

The recognition of an American woman to a place among the revered of the nation is significant of the wonderful change that has taken place in modern standards. When Mary Lyon was doing her pioneer work and establishing a college for women at Mt. Holyoke, in Massachusetts, she met with chill and even aggressive opposition. Among her few male champions was a clergyman. Although of the old school, he went about proclaiming that "as women had been the occasion of the fall, she ought to have the highest possible education to undo the ill effects of the fatal apple." This advocate is treasured uniquely in college annals as "Pa" Hawks.

Two centuries after Boston opened its schools for boys there was no welcome there for girls. Miss Mary E. Woolley, now president of Mt. Holyoke, calls attention to the curious fact that girls particularly anxious for education "were sometimes permitted to sit on the door-step and hear the boys recite."

It was not until the beginning of the third decade of the nineteenth century that Rhode Island admitted girls into the public schools. The present president of Bryn Mawr, Miss M. Carey Thomas, encountered the survival of that prejudice in recent times. She says that before she went to college at Cornell she was permitted to meet a college woman who was staying at the house of an acquaintance. Miss Thomas went to see her with fear. She had almost expected to see the creature appear in hoofs and horns. It was a relief, however, to find that a graduate of a handsome and dressed like other women.

For four following years Miss Thomas studied at Cornell and then went to Leipzig. But that crowning ambition succeeded in alienating her circle in Baltimore. Letters received at Leipzig from her mother stated that the girl's name was never mentioned by women of their acquaintance. "I was thought by them," Miss Thomas says, "to be as much of a disgrace to my family as if I had eloped with the coachman."

Now the education of girls and young women in this country is one of the most important features of our civilization. Girl graduates are now going in for public teaching for public service, and, contrary to popular belief, 50 per cent of the total of educated girls get married. And their homes become intellectual and social centers in the highest sense. They are reviving the highest traditions of the salon.

Every educated woman is a benefactor of the work begun by Mary Lyon. She was a New England girl who earned her own way and who, at fifteen years of age, was housekeeper for her brother.

Throughout her career as a college founder and president she introduced the spirit of service. She was the first to recognize that young people would rise to the occasion if put upon their honor. A statement made to her by a student was accepted by her final. And truth and the search for it became idealized.

Mary Lyon educated girls for teachers and sent them throughout America and into England, Spain, India and Persia. Lake Erie college in Ohio and Mill's Seminary, in California, were founded by girls who went from her classes.

In enthusiasm over Mary Lyon's work, it is said that she was the emancipator of women and that in time the influence of her spirit will liberate half of the human race.

The Hall of Fame has been honored by the addition of her name in the list of immortals.

Poultry Pointers

Small grains, cracked corn and dried bread crumbs are best.

Keep the young chicks dry and well fed, and you will succeed in raising most of them.

Remember that poultry should have access to grit at all times; it is their substitute for teeth.

Sunlight is essential in poultry quarters. Darkness is conducive to disease.

Beginners would do well to confine themselves to one breed, and let that be a first class one.

For fattening broilers sour milk—clabber, as it is called—is excellent.

In feeding either sweet milk or sour milk, be sure the troughs are clean.

Make the laying hens feel comfortable and contented, and they will do better.

How to Win Success

SCHOOL IS THE beginning of business, and business is the greatest school in the world. Education begins with the child's first crying gasp at the atmosphere into which it is born, and it goes on to the last act of life.

The young man or woman who leaves school for business is still the same individual. The change consists only in taking up one set of tasks for another. The work that calls out the power has changed, but the call to the power itself is clear and distinct.

Business is an elastic word. It applies to the work for which a man receives, from some source outside of himself, payment for the use of energy which is aroused within himself. In its broadest sense, then, the word business may refer to the laborer who gives what seems to be only physical strength, and to the financier or scholar, who gives mental power. In either case the reward is for power set in motion.

It has been pointed out by Mr. Arnold Bennett that, in the popular sense of the word, it is impossible for all men to succeed. This is not an indictment against the word Success, but against our use of it.

Every human being can succeed in the one path that is open to him. That is, he can succeed in letting himself out, if he will, which means, if he "wills it."

"What I am," said Sir Humphry Davy, "I have made myself." In every man there is something which can be increased, something that lets out the real man and gives him another chance to show what is in him. It may mean only a good foot soldier instead of a general; it may mean a humble schoolmaster, and not a Pestalozzi; it again may mean a man wise to his humble task of family government, and not at all wise in national government.

But there is need of all these kinds of men and each in relation to the man concerned, self success, for success is like life itself. A mouse is just as much alive as an elephant, despite the difference in their bulk.

Real success is that which is developed by business, or by a man's daily work. It may be, on the one hand, the simple task of digging a ditch, or, on the other, the guiding of a national crisis. Some measure of a man is called out in both cases, and a man can win success at either task.

II. Now, if we use this word business as meaning a man's daily labor, it is a great word, and it shows clearly the direction whence success comes.

A man at work is not a slave. He is a free man. He serves the world, and his presence among other men is that of one bearing a part of the load. By his help the work of the world moves forward.

This applies as much to a boy running an elevator as it does to a man who carries on a large business. And the comfort it has for the boy in the elevator is this: When he has learned how to do his work in the very best way he is ready to move on to a better place. After all, it is not easy to run an elevator in the best way.

III. School is so arranged that we move on from class to class. As we know we are making good. We do our lessons as they are given us, and the teacher keeps a record of how we do them. If the record shows up to his satisfaction he puts a check mark against our name to say that we are passed on.

The advantage of this is that some one, man or woman, is taking the trouble to see that we get our advancement when we are ready for it. No one ever gets our place. Our record belongs to us, and we stand or fall on the work we do.

Business, like school, is arranged so that we can go on from class to class. Now if we actually KEEP ON MOVING, if we keep on making a good record, some one will take notice of it and give us credit for it, or, if no such person is watching us, our record will, of itself, push us into a better place.

Many people do not believe this, but it is true. No one can trust anything with more faith than he can trust good work.

When a man stops getting on in life something is wrong. Either he has done his work only passably well, or, having mastered it, he is content to stay there. In this respect men at work are like boys in the old swimming hole. They can either swim forward with a good strong stroke or they can just tread water. Now the business world is so full of men treading water that they often get in the way of the swimmer who wants to get somewhere.

When David Garrick tramped to London with Sam Johnson he had no money in his pocket. But he had something better, which was a THOUGHT IN HIS MIND. This thought kept urging him to become an actor. And he kept at it until he succeeded.

Garrick went into business on the basis of a partnership. He was one partner and his ambition was the other. A combination of this kind cannot be beaten, unless the man himself is untrue to the other partner.

You have often heard about Opportunity knocking at a man's door. Some men wait just behind the door, listening for Opportunity to come along. When it raises its hand to knock the man rushes out and says: "All ready, Mr. Opportunity. I am ready. Show me what to do."

But other men—and a lot of them—are not just behind the door. They are in bed. When Opportunity knocks, they turn over and sing out: "Not so much noise. I'm resting."

And it is a truth worth remembering that when a man wants to rest, he must wait just behind the door, listening for Opportunity to come along. When it raises its hand to knock the man rushes out and lets him have all the rest he wants.

(BALL-BEARING, LONG-WEARING)

Key-lever, typebar, carriage (and shift, if you write capitals)—really all essential operating parts of the typewriter—leap into action and perform their functions with the perfect ease, smoothness and absolute precision of ball bearings, made and adjusted with scientific exactness. The nerves of this typewriter are sensitive to the nerves of your finger tips, and just as instantly responsive as the finger tips are to the brain.

This immediate, smooth, sympathetic action, duplicated in no other writing machine, is easiest for the operator and most advantageous to the machine. Both wear longer.

The good rain which fell in Greencastle Monday night was only a local affair. A few miles south and west of town no rain fell at all. The Greencastle folks were mighty thankful for what they got however, and sympathize with those who did not get any.

The bursting of a small water pipe in front of the south entrance of the court house, caused some little excitement Tuesday afternoon. A workman in digging a ditch struck the pipe with a pick. The pipe was easily repaired.

County Commissioners Raines and Houck were in Greencastle today to see after the lowering of the heating plant—court house conduit.

The Greencastle Gas Company is having no little trouble in lowering its gas pipes on the square. The excavators have found stone on the west and south sides of the square and a gang of men are having to blast it out in order that the pipes may be lowered to the proper depth. Mr. Newman, the manager of the plant, sent to Terre Haute to get several practical gas main men to help him out on the job.

While driving on Main street Monday night, Mrs. John Moore's horse became excited and got one leg over a shaft, breaking the shaft and causing some little excitement. The horse did not run away and there was little damage done the buggy.

Fred Goodwine is driving a new Hupmobile.

Dr. W. M. McGaughey is driving a new Flanders car. The car purchased a year ago by the physician did not stand up to its guarantee and the factory made it good by sending him an entirely new car. That is, all is new excepting the body of the car, and that was painted and refinished in the factory so that it looks like new.

Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Swablen will entertain on Thursday evening a dinner for Prof. and Mrs. H. B. Longdon, who will leave September first for a trip abroad.

The Elks and Eagles of that town recently played a ball game, the losers to give a banquet for the winners. The Eagles won and the banquet is scheduled to be given this evening. It is probable that several other Greencastle Elks and Eagles will go to Brazil on the evening car to attend the affair.

KING OF SWAN ISLAND.

He's a Philanthropist and Well Liked, Especially by Seamen.

Among the saloon passengers arriving in Boston recently on the steamer San Jose, from Port Limon, Costa Rica, was Alonzo Adams, owner of Swan Island, and who is known throughout Central America as the king of Swan Island. His domain is a fertile island situated in the Caribbean Sea, upon which he has a beautiful residence and numerous houses for his laborers. He raises fruit and coconuts and employs several hundred men. Mr. Adams is a philanthropist, and has assisted not only the inhabitants of several of the friends of the Caribbean, but is of especial help to mariners. Knowing the value of a light to guide the vessels running through the Caribbean on their way from New York and Boston to Port Limon and other points, he built and maintains a light on the island, which can be seen for many miles, and rays of which warn the captains of steamers not to approach too close to the shallow waters in the vicinity. Mr. Adams is sixty-five years old and is a native of Eastport. He keeps informed of what is transpiring in the world by the papers brought to him by passing steamers.—Philadelphia Press.

The Ultra Microscope.

The ultra microscope is a recent device of science. By its aid it is expected that many micro-organisms which hitherto defied observation will be detected. As the classification of microbes has advanced, biologists have inclined to the conclusion that many must still remain unknown, too small to be perceived with any instrument hitherto in use.

The new apparatus is the invention of two Frenchmen, Cotton and Monton. It involves no change in the existing arrangement of lenses. It is the system of lighting that is revolutionized. The ray is used at right angles to the axis of the instrument, instead of coinciding with it. Thus the light sweeps across the objective parallel with its plane.

By this means it is said that many particles so small that they have defied detection under the most powerful glasses become visible as brilliant points. It is a new world, enthusiastic microscopists say, that is opened to scientific study.

Milan, the center of Italy for the moving picture machine trade, has already about 40 such theaters. Every available hall is being turned into a moving picture show, while nearly every second and third-rate theater and "cafe chantant" finishes the evening's entertainment with a few cinematograph pictures. During the summer months even the larger theaters are used.

Door For Great Occasions.
 Many old houses in Holland have a special door which is never opened save on special occasions—when there is a marriage or a death in the family. The bride and bridegroom enter by this door and it is then nailed or barred up until a death occurs, when it is opened, and the body is removed by this exit.

The Sign of a Good Breakfast

Cherry Roll

Stem and pit one box of cherries, cover with one cupful of sugar, and let them stand until ready to use. Sift two cupfuls of flour with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one of sugar, and a quarter teaspoonful of salt; rub in two tablespoonfuls of butter and mix with two-thirds of a cupful of milk. Roll out into an oblong sheet a half inch thick, spread with butter, then drain the cherries, leaving all the juice for the sauce, lay the cherries upon the dough, sprinkle with two table spoonfuls of sugar, roll up closely and pinch the ends that the juice may not escape. Place in a buttered pan and bake one-half hour. Add enough water to the reserved juice to make a cupful and a half of sauce, thicken with a teaspoonful of flour dissolved in a tablespoonful of cold water, stir in three level tablespoonfuls of sugar and boil for three minutes.

Fruit Sherbet

This can be made of fruit of any kind in season, or of canned fruit, and is most delicious and refreshing in warm weather. Take the juice of five lemons, mix with one quart of water and strain. Use half a gallon of strawberries, or whatever other fruit desired. Thoroughly wash one quart of berries and mix with one pint of water, and just enough sugar to make it dissolve well. Let it stand until thoroughly dissolved. Take the other quart of berries and cut into small pieces, and let this stand (without mixing with anything else) long enough for some of the juice to come from them. Then mix all together, lemon juice, fruit juice, and fruit, add another quart of water and two cups of sugar. Beat the white of one egg until stiff, and add a half cup of sugar to the egg. Stir all thoroughly together and freeze until hard.

Salad of '76

In making this salad the ingredients must be chopped separately and in the order given: One teaspoonful of onion chopped fine and measured after chopping, five good sized cold boiled potatoes, three hard boiled eggs chopped not too fine, and the crisp tender leaves of two heads of lettuce, leaving out enough of the inner leaves to line the salad bowl. Pour on a dressing made from the following recipe and mix gently with a silver fork: Yolks of two eggs, three-fourths of a cupful of sour cream, one teaspoonful of mixed mustard, half a teaspoonful of pepper, a teaspoonful of salt and half a cupful of the best vinegar. Mix thoroughly and cook in a double boiler. This dressing keeps well and this quantity is sufficient for two salads of the size given. Garnish with rings of the white of a hard boiled egg and disks cut from boiled beets.
